

TOP FIVE MEDIA AND TECH TRENDS ACCORDING THE MTM

Ottawa - February 7, 2018 - The Media Technology Monitor \(MTM\), a research product of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC/Radio Canada), today announced the immediate release of its new Sneak Peek Report.

The Sneak Peek explores our top five key findings and provides an inkling of what can be expected from the upcoming season.

Key findings from the Sneak Peek include the following:

- Canadians still love watching television - 94% say they've watched in the past month. Linear TV remains king, although we're seeing shifts to online TV in both the Anglophone and more recently the Francophone market;
- Being the first to market, Siri is currently used by close to two-thirds of Canadians who use voice activated assistants, with significant marketing campaigns of smart speakers this will be closely monitored this spring;
- Canadians were asked to rank the devices and services they couldn't live without. Canadians 18+ rank home internet connection as their number one, however, Millennials (18-37) differ somewhat in rankings as they report their cell is number one;
- Over half of Canadians (54%) currently subscribe to at least one Over-the-Top TV (OTT) service such as Netflix. MTM asked current OTT subscribers how interested they'd be in subscribing to another OTT service, one in seven report that they would if the price was right;
- Travel and commuting apps such as Uber and Lyft are popular among 13% of Canadians. Not surprisingly, those living in Ontario are more likely to use ride sharing apps than the rest of Canadians due to market availability.

The MTM Sneak Peek Report is being offered as well as the English- and French-language Media and Technology Adoption Reports and the most recent Fall 2017 data set, which is all available to subscribers on the MTM Portal.
